

Stretch Your Assets

Create a Lasting Legacy by “Stretching”
Your IRA or Non-Qualified Annuity

First, Let's talk about you.

Are you interested in making it last another lifetime?

When you think about your legacy wishes, what is important to you? Start by answering the following questions.

- 1 What assets do you plan on leaving to your children or grandchildren?
- 2 What strategy do you have in place that will allow you to leave your beneficiaries with a steady stream of income?
- 3 How do you plan on keeping your beneficiaries from risking their inheritance?

Over the years, you worked hard to save for retirement

You sacrificed.

You made difficult decisions.

You hoped and dreamed.

Most of all, you carefully planned for the long run and watched your retirement nest egg grow.

Your beneficiary has the option to choose many different distribution methods including lump sum, five year deferral, and systematic life expectancy payments. Working with your beneficiary to elect a life expectancy strategy called “Stretch” can help eliminate the concerns you may have about fulfilling your legacy wishes.

What can Stretch do for you?

Now, let's talk about your legacy.

Stretching Your Assets into Your Future

A Stretch strategy is an estate-planning option designed to:

- » Continue your asset allocation strategy for the next generation.
- » Extend the tax-deferred earning power of your IRA or non-qualified annuity.
- » Produce a lifetime income stream and possibly spread out tax liability for your beneficiaries.

With careful planning, a Stretch strategy may help you extend and enhance the value of your IRA or non-qualified annuity to more than one generation.

- » You can maximize your legacy with the use of enhanced death benefit options offered by annuities, and by limiting your distributions from these assets.
- » When you pass away, the IRA or non-qualified annuity may be continued by your spouse so the assets can continue to accumulate.
- » When your spouse passes away, the account is passed on to the beneficiaries who can choose to Stretch the IRA or non-qualified annuity.
- » Stretch produces income in the form of minimum distributions based on the beneficiary's life expectancy. Unless you or your spouse restricts the payout to your beneficiary, they can access more than the minimum distribution at any time.

Structuring Income for Your Beneficiary

A Stretch strategy can be voluntary or involuntary.

- » Voluntary - Allow your beneficiary to decide whether or not to Stretch the account as one of their death benefit options.
- » Involuntary – You can predetermine that the account must be Stretched by your beneficiary upon your death.

The Voya™ Beneficiary Designation with Restricted Payout form allows you to direct the frequency and duration of all or a portion of your annuity's distributions (within IRS guidelines) which may:

- » Help remove the risk that your beneficiaries will spend the death benefit proceeds too quickly.
- » Help provide funds for your children or grandchildren's education.
- » Give your beneficiary a steady stream of income.

Your next steps...

- 1. Determine whether you want to have control of the assets you pass on to your designated beneficiary(ies).
- 2. Schedule a meeting with your trusted financial professional to discuss your particular asset allocation and legacy objectives.

How to Stretch Your IRA

How does the Stretch concept work?

Follow the chart on the right to see how assets pass from generation to generation.

John passes away.

Joan passes away.

Jim passes away.

John is an IRA/ non-qualified (NQ) Annuity owner with his spouse as beneficiary.

Joan is the surviving spouse who elects to continue the contract.

Joan names Jim as beneficiary.

If not already selected,
Jim elects to stretch.
Jim receives life expectancy payments at least annually and the IRA/NQ Annuity continues to accumulate interest while remaining in a tax-deferred status.

Jim names Jordan as beneficiary.

Jordan may continue to receive Jim's life expectancy payments for the remainder of the schedule until all payments are received, or the accumulation or cash surrender value of the contract is depleted.
